The elevator is an interactive game about career management in a fictitious company. Participants have to respond to different dilemmas and manage their career, in the hope of reaching a top management position in the organization.

Through the interactive game the following topics are discussed:

- Dealing with ethical issues in companies
- Dealing with business dilemmas specific to certain positions in the organization
The game is based around a series of questions where students have to select the most appropriate answer from a list of options. Students begin the game in an initial position with the objective of reaching the position of CEO of the fictitious company.
The elevator

The game, from the area of Organizational Behaviour, is simply structured and the wide range of dilemmas offers students a realistic point of view and encourages class discussion.