Mobile devices is an interactive technical note that provides a full, integrated overview of one of the most significant features of information access technology: mobile devices.

This interactive technical note:

- Offers an overview of technologies, media, sectors and content associated with mobile devices
- Shows the evolution over the time.
The module includes activities through which, by analysing demos of mobile technology and services, the student acquires a real grasp of the concepts.